1. D — A warning of potential hazards ahead

Yellow diamond-shaped signs are warning signs that alert drivers to potential hazards or changing road conditions ahead.

2. C — Slow down and give right-of-way to traffic and pedestrians

A yield sign requires drivers to slow down and give the right-of-way to vehicles and pedestrians in or approaching the intersection.

3. B — Orange

Construction and maintenance warning signs are fluorescent orange or orange-red to increase visibility in work zones.

4. A — Diamond

Most warning signs are diamond-shaped, which helps drivers quickly identify them as alerting to potential hazards ahead.

5. D — Pedestrian crossing

This sign warns drivers of a pedestrian crossing area ahead where they should be prepared to stop for pedestrians.

6. C — The maximum legal speed is 65 miles per hour under ideal conditions

This regulatory sign indicates the maximum legal speed limit under ideal conditions is 65 miles per hour.

7. B — Winding road ahead

This warning sign alerts drivers to a winding road ahead where they should slow down for safety.

8. A — Railroad crossing ahead

This sign warns drivers that a railroad crossing is ahead and they should be prepared to stop if a train is approaching.

9. D — Overtaking other vehicles is prohibited

This regulatory sign indicates that drivers must not overtake and pass other vehicles going in the same direction in that zone.

10. C — School zone or school crossing

A pentagonal sign indicates a school zone or school crossing, alerting drivers to watch for children and obey special speed limits.

11. B — Hospital nearby

A blue sign with a white 'H' indicates a hospital is nearby, which helps drivers locate emergency medical services.
